Student Group Presents Clever, Interesting Play

LAC LA BICHE—The play 'Have a Heart', presented by the high school students in the theatre recently, was an interesting and clever offering, by a cast which did a very creditable job considering that for most it was their first time on the stage.

To the director and the cast go a great deal of credit in choosing the type of play they did for their first presentation. While new groups often want a comedy, this cast presented an offering wherein the situations were not impossible and the humor straightforward.

Usual stage nervousness was singularly lacking, though, there was some lack of timing, and a certain amount of amateur "feet shuffling,, was noticeable.

The young lady who played 'Bo' worked up the roll in a week or ten days, and she is to be congratulated. The others in the cast seemed to be well-chosen, and on the whole appeared to have a fairly good understanding of their roles.

If the actors in this presentation persevere and learn certain mechanics of acting, they will soon be able to lose themselves and cover their 'character' with a cloak of realism. There are tremendous posslbilities in the cast of 'Have a Heart.'

FREEDOM NEWS

FREEDOM. — A number of young people gathered at the Donnelly residence last Sunday evening to help Don celebrate his birthday. A grand time was had with Don serenading his guests with that lovely song "Remember Me," not to mention a violin solo by Fritz. The talent present was outstanding. At some future date we'll ask these boys to perform again so you can hear 'em too.

The Nip and Tuck Club meeting held at Brun's last Tuesday evening was quite successful. The girls decided to have a party in the hall on April 16 to which everyone is cordially invited. The hall is to be especially decorated in Easter colors, a little detail the girls are going to look after, which also includes cleaning it up too. The next meeting will be held the same time at the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Olsen and family, long time residents of Freedom, have departed for the United States. They plan on leaving Edmonton the first part of April and our very best wishes go with them.

Miss Eugene Lehman and her fiance, Bill Rysick of Edmonton, were visiting at the former's parent's home over the week-end. Wedding bells will be ringing soon for this lucky young couple and we wish them all the luck in the world.

Being lonesome seems to be one of the main pastimes of one of our local girls. Just because the road is banned it doesn't mean he can't walk.

We are glad to see Florence Anderson is back home again after having an operation for appendicitis. Her many friends hope she will be up and around soon.

Erna Moltzan and Marg were visitors in Freedom last week-end. By the sound of things a few nights in Barrhead certainly does tehm good—need we say more?

We heard Laurel was certainly enjoying herself at the show on Sunday, although we don't see any fun in having smelling salts under one's nose—do you?

Mr. Eric Preuss was on the sick list for the past week. We're certainly glad he is better and hope to see him around again soon.

Two of our high school students can certainly persuade the rest of us in coming to their spring tea and fashion parade. At least they make us say we'll come. Here's hoping it's a success.

Our deepest sympathy goes to Martin and Edward Sundlie of Wandering River and Mrs. Hugo Meyer of Rochfort Bridge in the loss of their mother at Ryley.

PORTRAIT OF ALBERTA

Land of unusual contrasts and paradoxes—that is Alberta. Breeding ground for new political parties — that, too, is Alberta.

But the overpowering feature of any portrait of Alberta is to be found in the integration of this vast province into one solid political, economic and social unit.

When the first twin streaks of steel began snaking their way across the Alberta plains, into the Foothills and over the Rockies, not even the most wild-eyed dreamer of the time could conceive of the fabulous future lying ahead of this province.

In the colorful days of the past—like when people of Fort Whoop-Up would write back east that they were hard at work on their gardens, and then add a P.S. that a man was killed on their doorstep that morning—people in this country lead a relatively simple life, despite the rigors of the life and the hardiness of the pioneers.

They led a 'simple' life in the sense that they were not confronted with the immense problems facing us in the 20th century.

But here in Alberta we stand on the threshold of a new era. This province is in the vanguard of a march toward a new age—an age of abundance, wherein man, having learned to harness the powers of water, wind, coal and oil, is turning his thoughts toward creating a new social destiny for the common man — who is not the forgotten man of the 20th century.

And in Alberta, which wears a hundred masks and speaks with a score of tongues, turbulent with beauty, hope, hate and ugliness, warmed by a blazing sun, chilled by a frozen wind, we have integrated an empire into a state.

Look at Alberta. Here the cowboys ride lazily across the prairie, here a gang of roughnecks bring in another oil well, here men go into the bowels of the earth for coal, here gas streaks like a geyser from the face of the planet, here rise the new skylines of our two great cities—look at it on the map —a panorama that exhausts the human eye—rolling across the breast of a continent.

This is the portrait of Alberta.

THE LASH FOR SEX CRIMES?

The British people, until 1948, when the Labor government abolished it, put faith in the "cat-o'-nine tails" for certain criminal cases, believing, with many police officials, that the "cat" was the only thing really feared by thugs.

Recently, the British have been aroused by the publication of crime news, featuring assaults on women on the streets, in trains and even in their homes. As a result the impression is general that a crime wave is under way but the government disputes this, asserting that the number of crimes of violence has decreased since the abolition of whipping by law.

It is perfectly obvious that some individuals are adequately punished by the shame and stigma that attaches to a conviction for crime. Others, however, escape the lash of public condemnation but feel the severity of a term in prison. A minority, it should be understood, fears bodily punishment without being greatly concerned over shame or imprisonment.

We are not ready to advocate the use of the whip as a means of punishment for crime, but it may have certain advantages in connection with the punishment of sex perverts who seem to be unable to restrain themselves. This type, if we have our thinking straight, is particulaly susceptible to physical punishment and the fear of it may strengthen their backbones when other primeval urges arise.

SCRIPTURAL MEDITATIONS

By AINSLEY BLAIR

"The spirit of unselfish labor for others gives depth, stability, and Christlike loveliness to the character, and brings peace and happiness to its possessor. The aspirations are elevated. There is no room for sloth or selfishness. Those who thus exercise the Christian graces will grow, and will become strong to work for God. They will have clear spiritual perceptions, a steady, growing faith, and an increased power in prayer. The Spirit of God moving upon their spirit, calls forth the sacred harmonies of the soul, in answer to the divine touch. Those who thus devote themselves to unselfish effort for the good of others, are most surely working out their own salvation."

The Secretive Mr. MacMillan

From The Edmonton Bulletin

The passion of secrecy that obsesses the Hon. D. B. MacMillan is one of the unhappy weak spots in an otherwise able and efficient government.

Mr. MacMillan carries his official taciturnity to an objectionable and sometimes almost mischievous point.

He refuses, as a general thing, to confide in the press. And since the press is the ear and tongue of the people, this means that Mr. MacMillan excludes the public from his confidence as well.

And this mania for concealment is carried into almost every function of his post as minister of public works.

Mr. MacMillan declines to give details, even to the legislative assembly, of the road contracts awarded by his department.

Nobody knows what bids were made on these contracts.

Nobody even knows, usually, where roads are to be built until the graders are on the job.

In any other province, programs are made public months in advance.

Mr. MacMillan tells nothing.

He asserts that bids should not be made public because the revelation of competitive figures might result in a loss to his department.

That would be a good argument if Mr. MacMillan were running a private business.

But Mr. MacMillan is not running a private business. He is running the people's business with the people's money.

What is going on in Mr. MacMillan's department that all this stealth should be considered necessary?

What is wrong?

What is it that has to be hidden?

In Search of the Yukon

I wanted to see the famous Chilkoot Pass. But the only taxi in town, which I tried to hire, would not take me the 7 miles to Dyea; he said the trail was not good. So I elected to walk it, and took a companion with me. As we walked along the road, about half way there, with the rocks some twenty feet high on one side of us and sloping down several hundred feet below the road on the other side, with the sea at the bottom, we stopped to watch some porpoises blowing. Although both of us nad seen porpoises hundreds of times, that was the first either of us had seen them blowing, just like little whales. As we stood there watching, taking turns looking through the binoculars, we suddenly heard the gravel begin to roll down over the rocks behind us, then we heard the movement of a heavy body in the brush.

"It's a bear," my companion exclaimed, "and we'd better get out of here." He told me that only about one bear out of ten will attack a man, but you never can tell —until he attacks—which one is that one. Also, if it was a black bear, my companion explained, he probably wouldn't pay attention to us, but a brownie—the Alaskan brown bear, would be something to conjure with. "So I'm going back."

"Well, wait a minute," I told him, "I'll be going back with you."

But next day, bear or no bear, I made up my mind that I would walk to Dyea, and thence to the Chilkoot Pass. Before I got out of town, however, I met a man with a truck who agreed to take me to the end of the trail for $5 an hour. It took two hours. The road was being blasted out of the solid granite, every foot of the way. The tide was in—they have 17 and 18 foot tides there—so the whole inlet was full of water and I could not walk across to Dyea as I had planned had the tide been out. Dyea today is a ghost town, with just a few buildings still standing. That is where Jack London landed in August, 1897, when he was 21. Because I was not able to go any further — unless I waited some hours for the tide to go out—I did not see the famous 3,500 foot Chilkoot Pass after all.

But to return to Churchill. Old Jim and I were sitting on the edge of the wharf, and after a long talk we parted for the night, he to one of the hotels in town, and I to my brown tent half a mile away about 50 feet back from the water. On the following day I must have called at a dozen shacks and tents along a mile of river-shore, trying to hire soem Indian with a canoe to take me across to old Fort Prince of Wales. Finally I came to 6 or 7 Indians leaning lazily on an overturned canoe while they watched an old fellow repair a crack. I asked would one of them take me across the river to the Fort. Nobody said a word. After a long minute's silence, during which no one paid any attention to me, and the old man who had been patching the canoe walked off leisurely to his tent, I asked again would one of them take me across. Then a young buck said laconically: "He's going," and jerked his head toward the tent the oldster had just entered. And so for $2 it was agreed that two of them would take me across and back. The canoe was turned right side up, I helped them carry it to the water, a rusty rifle and an old harpoon were laid in the bottom, the outboard was started, and we were off.

The river, as I have said before, where it empties into the Bay, is about a mile wide, and on the west side is a sandy peninsula wth a rocky edge. Here it is, on this bleak barren tongue of land, that the old Fort stands. It is called the most northern fort in Canada. It is about 300 feet long by 17 high, and took nearly 40 years to build. The outer wall is thick stones of different colors; brown, gray, blue, and whitish; many are covered with rusty lichens, and you can still see the round path of the chisel or bar that was used in splitting the stones. There s also an inner stone wall, with the intervening space filled with earth, so that the walls of this old Fort are actually about 40 feet thick.

As I stood on one of the parapets and surveyed the semi-ruined old place, which the Dominion government partially restored in 1935, I reminded myself that this was where Samuel Hearne had surrendered to the French, without firing a shot, in 1782. Hearne had only 39 men, whereas the French had 3 ships and 400 men. I counted roughly 40 rusted cannon, some with a 4-inch bore, and others with a 6, and some of the guns mounted, but most of them lying about and almost hidden in the bushy growth that has taken possession of a good deal of the earthen part of the Fort. It was within these walls that the Selkirk Settlers had spent their first winter in Canada; their shelter was tents. Before the French had left to go south to capture York Factory, they tried, unsuccessfully, to blow up Fort Prince of Wales.

I noticed one of the mounted guns had a chunk of metal the size of my two fists blown out of one side of the muzzle. And that chunk may be seen today just where it must have fallen and lain undisturbed these past 167 years, on the ground outside the fort, 17 feet below the protruding gun.

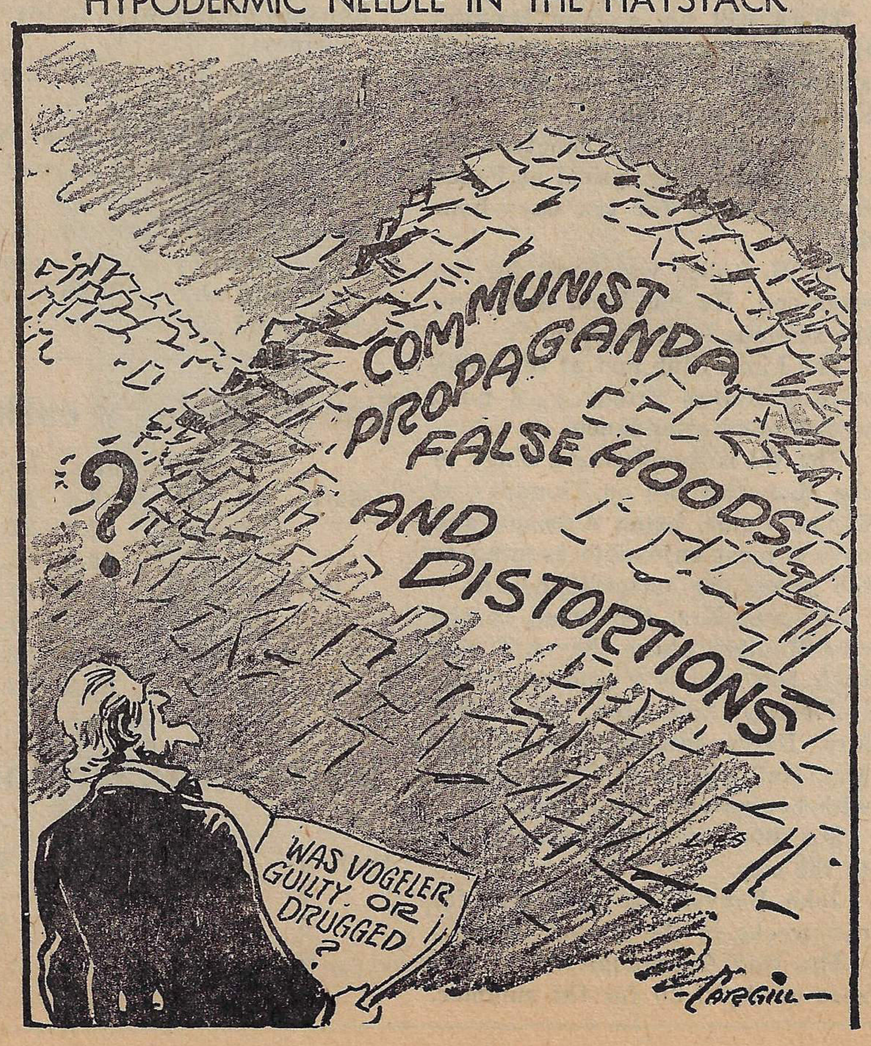

When I had seen all I wanted, and returned to the canoe, a storm of wind and rain that had been brewing all morning, came down. The two Indians covered themselves with an old sheet of canvas. The thought of sharing it with a third person there seemed never to have entered their heads, so he found shelter in the lee of a large rock. When the rain stopped we tried to shove off, but now had wind, tide, and the current of the river to buck against, and because the outboard refused to function we could not proceed, but were thrown back on the beach. This seemed more than enough for the younger Indian, for he announced that he would not attempt it again, and walked off to some tents several miles away.

After half an hour the old man loked up at the sky, sniffed the air, and said "Maybe we try again?" I nodded my approval, and we shoved off. But again the motor refused to turn, and I bent the copper part of the old fellow's harpoon out of shape in trying to keep us off the rocks, for we were tossed back on the beach the second time.

Three-quarters of an hour later, after tinkering with the engine, we made a third try. This time the motor did its duty, and we headed out across a mile of gray, white-capped, water, where the tide-racing currents and waves were much too rough for travel in a twelve-foot canoe. Even though I sat on the bottom rather than the seat, and well up near the bow, we would slap down hard between each wave, roll, and sometimes take water over the side. About half way across the old motor began to sputter and cough and I thought sure it was going to die, which would mean that we would broach to and probably capsize.

Boost Outlays For District Highways

District highways and local roads will get a good slice of the provincial goverment's budget for highway expenditures this year.

The budget provides $3,820.000 for district road improvements, which is a substantial increase over last year.

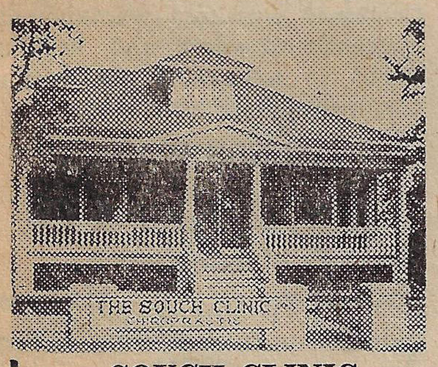

In bringing down the budget, the government announced nearly $12,000,000 for main highways construction, capital account. It was stated that the plan is to accelerate as rapidly as possible the building of all-weather highways to populated centers.

The appropriation for new bridge construction also is increased to a total of $1,230,000 while there is an item of $50,000 for new ferries.

While the province is budgeting for highway system expenditures of more than $20,000,000, it is pointed out that motor revenues this year from the gasoline tax, passenger car and other licenses, motor truck and buses certificates and registration fees are estimated at $15,385,000.

More than 337 sites considered nationally historic have been marked with cairns in Canada.

South Edmonton Family To Live in Hawaii

Mr. Allan Caldwell, former partner in the firm of Progress Printers and Publishers on 102 street, and recent employee of Community Publications, publishers of the South Edmonton and 30-odd other Alberta weeklies, has taken up residence in Honolulu.

A native of Edmonton, Mr. Caldwell lived at Hawaii on the island of Oaho for a number of years in the 30's and 40's. He joins Mrs. Caldwell and daughter Doreen who left Alberta for the "Paradise of the Pacific" last fall.

In a letter to Mr. Pue, Mr. Caldwell wrote of his trip to Hawaii, which was made by Pan American Airways. He flew at 20,000 feet and enjoyed "two wonderful meals" at that height at 250 miles per hour.

His letter describes the landing at Honolulu as follows:

"Sighting the island of Maui first, then Molohai, and in the distance, the lights of Honolulu, island of Oahu, could be seen, and butterflies started to play pranks in my tummy—for this was my 258th crossing over this particular part of the world, but my first by air.

"As the lights became brighter, thoughts of Hong Kong flashed into my mind, as Honolulu by air at night has become similar to Hong Kong.

"Gradually losing altitude and settling down like a graceful bird, we finally came to a halt, after a crossing of over 2200 miles in a few hours.

"My wife and daughter and several close friends waited patiently to greet me. They were all clad in Hawaiian costumes, even the men with cocoanut hats. All placed flower garlands around my neck, the ladies following it with the usual kiss of friendship and the island's greeting. Thus the Caldwell family was reunited once again in the "Paradise of the Pacific."

"The islands are as beautiful as ever, the flowers are just gorgeous, especially the orchids and the various hues of green on the hills overlooking the city. The noticable omission of vacant lots and highways of billboards and other signs which are unsightly in North America is indeed pleasing.

"The efforts of the 'Outdoor Circle,' a woman's organization, contines to keep Honolulu a billboardless city—a city of beautiful trees and flowers."

The World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. STRANGE

Since the beginnings of agriculture in the west crops have had to face severe hazards. The very first wheat crop put in by the Selkirk settlers in 1814 was devoured by the now extinct Passenger Pigeons. Several crops were destroyed by the Indians. The crop of 1817 was destroyed by a cloud of grasshoppers which in the words of the old records: "darkened the sky and fell like heavy snow on the colony. Garden crops and every green herb perished."

Since those days other hazards have damaged the crops: drought, rust, hail, frost, cutworms, sawflies and almost every year some damage has been suffered from grasshoppers. This present year will see a plague of grasshoppers as heavy as anything ever noted in the history of the west. Fortunately new methods of control are available, and which should hold the plague in check providing farmers will take advantage of this up-to-date method. A new chemical Aldrin, more effective than Chlordane which was used last year, will arrive in April and will be available for farmers by May 1. Every farmer,then, should find out if he is in the grasshopper area, and if he is then he should make arrangements for obtaining some of this new poison with complete directions for its use.

Aparies Are New Alberta Industry

W. G. leMaistre, Alberta's Provincial Apiarist, advises that tests with early and late package bees have shown that the best dates for installing them in hives in Alberta are between April 5th and May 5th. Beekeepers should make sure that their orders are placed with a reliable supplier well ahead of arrival date in order to ensure delivery at the proper time.

Bees hived in April or early May should be supplied with at least 20 pounds of food in the form of honey. Pollen is also an important ingredient in the bees diet, especially if the colony is to rear brood. A supply of pollen saved from last year and fed at the rate of two combs per colony is necessary for good results.

Most Canadian textile mills are located in small cities or towns bringing employment close to to people in rural areas.

S Roppel and Sons of Rockyford, exhibiting Marquis wheat, were named 1950 spring wheat champions in a contest sponsored by the United Grain Growers.

First award for oats was won by John E. Eluik of Hairy Hill, Alta. Both contests were open to all western Canadian farmers.

ALBERTA RAISES KING-SIZE FUND TO FIT KING-SIZE CHEQ UE

There's nothing small about this cheque, which is to be presented to the National Cancer Institute of Canada at forthcoming annual meeting in Ottawa of the Canadian Cancer society, by the Alberta division. The $50,000 comprises the largest single donation ever made towards cancer research in Canada. Some of the delegates are shown here after they approved the donation. The cheque is of ample dimensions—10 feet by three feet.

F.U.A. Supports National Marketing Board Scheme

A minimum of government regulation with a maximum of efficiency will result from the proposed nation-wide marketing board plan, Carl J. Stimpfle, president of the Farmers' Union of Alberta states on his return from Ottawa. Mr. Stimpfle represented the FUA at the dominion-provincial marketing conference held in the capital recently.

Conference was called by Agriculture Minister James Gardiner at the request of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture of which the FUA is a member body. Conference was attended by 65 representatives of provincial governments and farm organizations from the 10 provinces, as well as by federal officials.

Mr. Stimpfle expressed satisfaction with the progress made at the conference and stated that all that is left is for five or six provinces to amend their marketing acts to conform with inter-provincial and export requirements, and for the various producer groups to set up the necessary boards in each province.

The conference was told by Mr. Gardiner that the federal government intended setting up price controls regardless of the outcome of the meeting, but that by supplementing price controls with a nation-wide series of marketing boards the entire national farm economy should be strengthened.

Mr. Stimpfle pointed out that the boards would help control and stabilize prices, and consequently would enable the producer to use more intelligence in developing his production program. Furthermore, Mr. Stimpfle stated, such a setup would result in more and better products at fair prices to the consumers. It would also result in a minimum of government regulation with a maximum of efficiency in price regulating, production and marketing of farm products for export or for inter-provincial trade.

The Farmers' Union of Alberta has long advocated marketing boards as a step towards stabilized production and fair prices of farm products both to producer and consumer, Mr. Stimpfle stated.

In Alberta, the poultry producers' section of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture has been requested to approach the provincial government with the object of working out enabling legislation.

Passionate— About Sleep

DETROIT. — When Mrs. Doris Kelly received a divorce here, Circuit Judge John V. Brennan did not even bother to inquire her husbands occupation. The husband, Albert R. Kelly, presumably was asleep.

"He used to go to bed Friday nights and not wake up until Sunday morning," Mrs. Kelly told the court. "He was an inveterate sleeper. He preferred sleeping to recreation or any form of amusement."

Ofter, she added, Kelly stayed home "one or two days a week" and slept the day away.

Work Stoppages Reach New Low Across Canada

Time loss due to work stoppages arising from industrial disputes during February, 1950, was lower than during the previous month and only a little more than one-third the loss in February, 1949, according to the monthly summary of strikes and lockouts released this week by the Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor.

Work stoppages causing the greatest time loss were those of plumbers, steamfitters and helpers in Ottawa, Ontario, firebosses at various coal mines in Alberta, and beverage room tapmen, waiters and glass washers at Calgary, Alberta.

In February, 1949, there were 10 strikes and lockouts, involving 7,245 workers, with a loss of 71,652 days.

A THRILLING, TRUE MYSTERY

Murder on the Prairies

On the night of March 23, 1911, three men were sitting in a log shack about three miles east of Buffalo Lake and a little north of Bar Harbor. The daylight was getting longer but a lamp was necessary at 8 p.m. and it threw its rays over the men and lit up the drops of water that trickled down the little window of the room.

The owner of the shack, William Lennox, lived there alone, as his wife was in Ontario, and he sat that night close to the window where his profile could easily be seen from the outside. On each side of the little table were Louis Chaquette and Fred Ullman and the three men were talking about horses. In fact everybody talked about horses in those early days and Ullman had come over from his homestead to make a deal with Lennox about a team of work horses which he wanted to buy for the spring work.

The three men sat talking as though they had all the time in the world ,although time was passing with the last night on earth for one of them. Seven o'clock, eight o'clock, nine o'clock with the rain pelting on the roof. Finally Bill said: "Well, it's getting past nine o'clock, and the horses have to be fed. If you are going to make a deal, you had better make it now, as it's time to go to bed."

"THEY'VE GOT ME"

Just as he spoke, an explosion smashed the window pane, there was a tense silence for a moment, and then the two men around the table heard Lennox exclaim: "Well, they've got me boys" and he suddenly collapsed from his chair to the floor.

Lennox was brought to Stettler about four o'clock in the morning, but nothing could be done for him. The lower part of his face was blasted away and he died at two oclock in the afternoon of March 24.

A few days later the mounted police, who in those days were mounted and not mechanized, arrested Alex Soderburg. Soderburg was a young man of about 28 years of age and he lived with his father on the family homestead about six miles north of the Lennox farm. Alex was the type of a gentleman farmer and he was a good deal more interested in horses than in other branches of agriculture. He had two of the fastest saddle horses in the district, known as Pleasant Trip and Girlie. Girlie was really an exceptional filly and Alex had refused $200 for her, although horses at the annual horse sale last week averaged only $49 per head.

Mounted on Girlie, Alex was accustomed to roam the countryside, but he was not unusual in that respect. Everybody in the country rode horseback in those days and they came to town the same way. In fact Main street and Alerta avenue in Stettler, were lined with rails and hitching posts for the accommodation of saddle horses and the longest rail in town was that in front of the post office, which at that time was located on the site behind the Royal Bank.

RODE TO MEETINGS

Alex was a member of the Oddfellows Lodge in town and as he attended every meeting on Girlie, one of the members suggested that Girlie should be made an honorary member of the lodge. She was as well known in the community as Alex himself, as she had never been beaten in any of the numerous horse races that were held from time to time both in town and country.

On the night of the Lennox murder, the lodge was held in the rooms over Stettler Garage (then known as the Bigelow block) but Alex did not arrive until ten o'clock. He came into the lodge rooms sharp on ten, and then went out with George Patrick to the Bon Ton Livery, where Girlie was stabled. George stated at the trial afterwards that Girlie looked the same as usual and showed no signs whatever of having been driven at a rapid pace from Soderberg's farm to Stettler.

But the police had arrested Soderberg on two counts: First, that the tracks of Girlie had followed from the Soderberg to the Lennox farm, and secondly, that Soderberg's rifle had been found at home and it was marked with scratches and covered with mud.

The crucial point of the trial was the speed of Girlie in the ride that night from the Lennox farm to the Stettler lodge rooms, (as the police claimed) a distance of over twenty miles. Lennox had been shot at 9:15 p.m. and Alex arrived in town a little before ten o'clock.

NOT THAT FAST

The defence claimed that no saddle horse could travel at that rate and George Patrick, as noted before, testified that he had seen the horse a little after its arrival and it showed no signs of a rapid trip to town. The evidence was not conclusive and Judge Gray dismissed the case at the preliminary hearing, notwithstanding the protests of the mounted police.

This story of Soderberg is recounted at this date, in order to recall the atmosphere of the countryside forty years ago, when the rose was king, and the internal combustion engine had hardly been invented. Everybody rode horses in those days, and instead of garages, there were six livery stables and four blacksmith shops in the town of Stettler. One stable was located on Main street on the later site of the old Duckworth store and another blacksmith shop was located where Stettler Grocery now stands. Nobody, in those days, heard of the block buster or the jet plane. They never heard of the atomic bomb, nor imagined that, thirty-five years later, a bomb of this kind, could reduce two Japanese cities to rubble and kill thousands of men, women and children in thirty seconds of time. They did not live in an atmosphere of fear and tension and never saw wrecked cars on the highways. In fact the only hazards that the pioneers had to guard against was to be thrown fro mtheir horses, when they ranged across the country and stumbled over gopher holes.—The Stetler Independent.

Good Health for ALBERTANS

DON'T HESITATE

Don't hesitate about seeing your doctor if you suspect you may have cancer. And don't let fear of this disease make you put off having medical attention. Hundreds of cancer patients are cured each year and a patient's chances of a complete and lasting cure are far higher if the disease is detected and treated in its early stages. Don't wait for pain. It is not an early symptom.

STRONG EVIDENCE

There is strong evidence that tooth decay is most common among heavy consumers of such sugar products as candy, jam, soft drinks, jellies and cakes. The dental experts suggest that protective foods—meat and eggs for example—will help build and keep healthy teeth.

WET FEET

April, in most parts of Canada, means melting snow and running water. It also means wet feet and, unless care is taken, coughs and colds for the whole family. Children are a particular problem at this time of year, but a little extra care in keeping them warm and dry will pay dividends in good health.

CHECK HIS EYESIGHT

Weak eyesight may be the cause of a child's schoolwork suffering. By having the eyes o fa school child examined periodically you may prevent more serious conditions developing. And at the same time the child's progress at school may be considerably helped.

REGULAR BRUSHING HELPS

Brush your teeth last thing at night, first thing in the morning and after each meal. In four minutes after eating, destructive acids from food—particularly sweets—start to form on the teeth. A toothbrush is much cheaper than a filling.

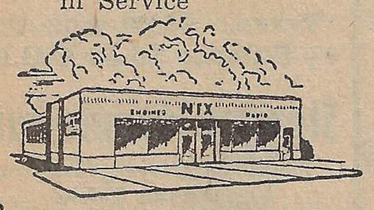

CHOOSE FOR COMFORT

Shoes should be chosen for their comfort as well as for their appearance. A Cinderella ized shoe may give you an Ugly-Sister expression and add ten years to your apparent age. Let the salesman measure your foot and fit your shoe correctly.

WORLD'S SWIMMING CHAMP IS PRESENTED WITH MARSH TROPHY

—Central Press Canadian

Seen here with the Lou E. Marsh trophy, awarded annually to outstanding Canadian athlete of the year, is 1949 award winner, 18-year-old Cliff Lumsden, of New Toronto, Ont., world's marathon swimming champion. In making the presentation, Premier Leslie Frost, of Ontario, seen at left, said he was proud that a young Canadian could achieve such a victory, and praised Lumsden's clean living as an example of what physical fitness could accomplish. In background is Charlie Ring, donor of trophy.

In The Legislature

By W. R. CORNISH

There has been considerable discussion in the House on the merits and demerits of the County Act. Present legislation only permits the establishing of four counties in the Province. This experiment will prove the value, if any, that the new set-up has and the Act provides that the ratepayers, after four or five years, can vote as to whether they wish to continue the County system or return to the present one.

A Bill amending the Land Titles Act was hurried through the House this week and assented to by the Lieutenant-Governor. The urgency was to avoid any delay in the construction of the pipe line to the Great Lakes. The Amendment facilitates the registration of easements but does not in any way prejudice the right of the owner of the land.

Public Works estimates show that the vote for building and maintaining roads in LID's has been increased by 40 per cent over those of a year ago. Hon. D. B. MacMillan indicated that of the nearly twelve million voted for main highway constructions; a million dollars will be spent on the Jasper-Edson roads; about forty miles will be hard surfaced on No. 16 Highway east from the Park junction; the Camrose-Wetaskiwin road will beha rd surfaced; some thirty-five miles of the main highway east of Stettler will be rebuilt as well as about fifty miles on different parts of highway No. 21. Hard surfacing will be done on the road east of Medicine Hat; some considerable work to be done on the Medicine Hat to Strathmore road as well as a number of projects in different parts of the Peace River.

The report on the pilot plant at Bitumount indicates that oil can be separated from the tar sands satisfactorily and a consultant has been hired to study the economics in order to determine whether gas can be produced and marketed on a competitive basis.

One of the highlights in the Session thus far was the Premier's report indicating the results of his negotiations on Alberta's debt refunding program.

The agreement covers $60,700,000 of debentures being sold in the United States to retire bonds held there. Throughout all of the negotiations it has been our aim, said Mr. Manning, to endeavor to get 3 per cent or better and then take advantage of the call feature of our American pay bonds to call and retire the 3 1-2 per cent interest-bearing bonds held in the United States.

The schedule divides the bonds into three classes. Those that are due from 1961 to 1963 which amounts to $13,080,000 and will bear coupons at at 2 5-8 per cent; those that run from 1964 to 1968 amounting to $24,330,000 will bear coupons at 2 3-4 per cent and those due from 1969 to 1973 amounting to $23,290,000 will bear inetrest at 2 7-8 per cent. This is an average rate of 2.79 per cent. When you add to this the costs associated with the issuing and sale of bonds, it will give us an average interest rate of 2.9 per cent and so that the original objective of getting money at 3 per cent has not only been realized, but bettered.

Not only has this given Alberta the most favorable debt pictre of any province in Canada, but as a result of the negotiations just completed by Alberta's Premier, seven years have been cut off the time of the original debt reorganization program and in 23 years, if this schedule is followed, the entire amount of Alberta's bonded debt will be paid off.

The new bonds are redeemable at the option of the Province in 1954 or thereafter on 30 days notice. This also shows an improvement over the old schedule which was to have remained in effect for five years before the bonds could be called. The new schedule has reduced that to four years and cut in half the number of days of notice necessary before the bonds can be called.

Premier Manning said that the demand for Alberta bonds was excellent and that a brisk sale is expected. It is interesting to note that the recently negotiated interest rate is even better than the rate which the government argued in 1936 should be paid on the province's debt.

The Premier enlarged on his report to bring the Members of the House up to date on the present debt picture of Alberta and indicated that the net saving on the Canada pay and sterling bonds being retired amounts to $8,531,000 and the interest saved as a result of the agreement reached yesterday, is another $17,445,000; thus the people of Alberta will have $25,975,000 as a result of the debt retirement and refunding program which has been worked out. This amounts to a net saving of more than a million dollars a year as only twenty-three years will be required to clear up our bonded debt.

In 1936 Alberta's debt stood at more than $167 million but by Jne 1 of this year it will have been reduced to $110,261,577. This is a reduction of $56,765,567 since 1936.

Mr. Manning told the House House that on a per capita basis in 1936 the debt amounted to $216.20 for each individual but by June 1 of this year on a per capita basis, the debt will be reduced to $126.70. There has been a reduction of $89.45 per capita since 1936.

An Amendment to the Communal Property Act has been introduced in the House which will prevent Doukhobors from holding Communal property in Alberta. It has been brought to the Government's attention that some Doukhobor groups are endeavoring to buy out some Hutterite holdings.

Ninety-seven per cent of Red Cross work is done by volunteer workers, without pay.

1,000 Towns Unite For Road Safety

LONDON.— This week is "Children's Safety Week" in Britain. One thousand towns are joining in a special effort to stop the deadly toll of accidents on Britain's roads.

All kinds of publicity are being used to stress the vital need for training and guarding the children against accidents until they can take care of themselves. Quizzes to test the road sense of both grown ups and youngsters will be a prominent feature of the 'Keep Death off the Roads Week.'

Teenagers are playing a leading part in this effort to protect children against traffic dangers. Junior Accident Prevention Councils have been formed throughout Britain.

Britain's Post Offices are also co-operating. Every letter delivered this week carries as its postmark a reminder to all road users to look out for children on the road.

Tales of The Northwest

By HENRY THOMPSON

A recent police court case in northern Alberta dealt with a collision of three trucks on the highway five miles north of Boyle. A parked truck was struck from behind by a truck going north. At the same time a truck going south met the second vehicle as it turned out to avoid the parked truck which carried no visible light at the rear.

No evidence was presented at the subsequent trial that any injury had been incurred by the people involved. Driver of the parked truck was charged with failing to have a rear light while parked on the highway between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise.

The driver of the third truck and driver and passengers of the second truck all swore that examination of the parked vehcle after the accident failed to show that a light could have been operating before the accident.

They said the bracket which holds the light was filled with mud and had no bulb or reflector. One said it was not even wired. The fourth witness definitely stated there was no light visible on the rear of the truck.

Evidence for the defence was poin by point the exact opposite to that offered by the crown witnesses. One witness swore that he had passed the truck one mile out of Boyle, and it had two rear lights on.

It was clear that some of the witnesses were perjuring themselves. Otherwise, how could the evidence by the defence be the exact opposite of the crown statements?

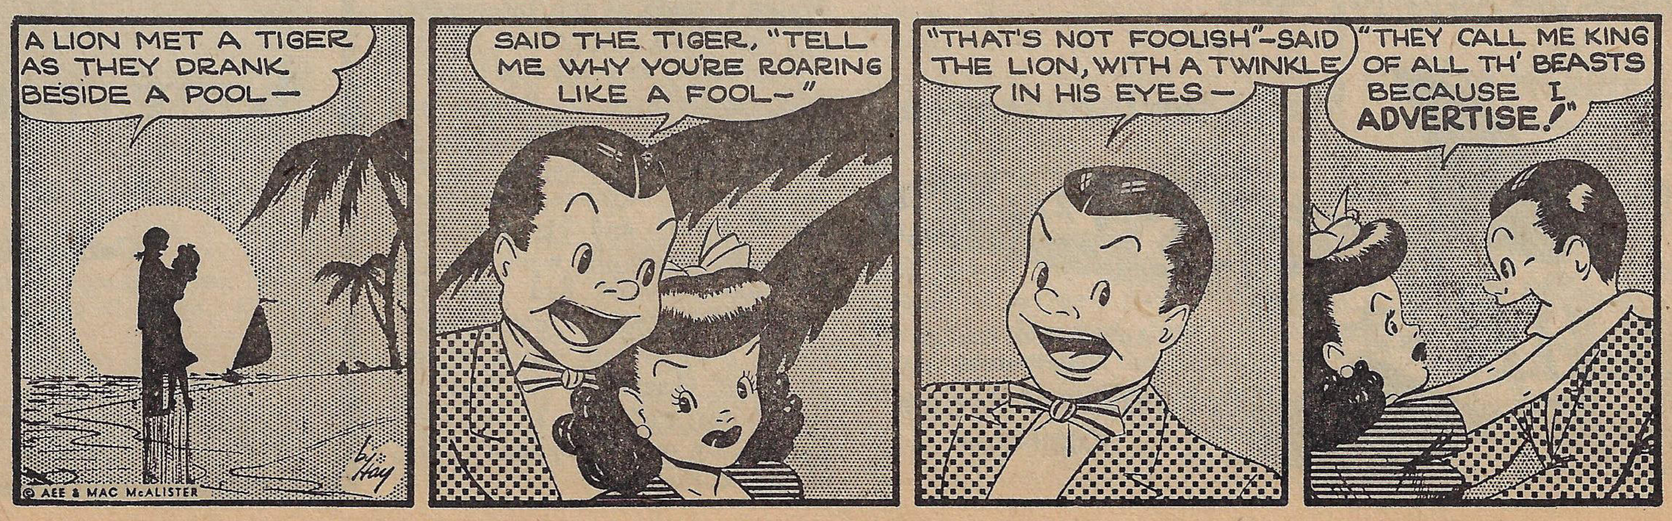

All witnesses were allowed to remain in the court and hear all other evidence. This fact could have had some bearing on the evidence given.

The police had been notified of the accident but had failed to go to the scene of the accident. They had given permission for the drivers to continue their journey, and therefore the police could not give their unbiased opinions.

The magistrate found the defendant guilty and fined him ten dollars with costs of about 26 dollars. The magistrate added that he felt the court was being 'used' and allowed no costs whatever to the complainant who had been called as a witness for the crown.

Three witnesses travelled a distance of 100 miles and the fourth a distance of 50 miles. To refuse to attend a court on receipt of a police summons makes you liable to arrest and a fine, yet at the whim of a magistrate, after your evidence has been used to obtain a conviction, a crown witness can be summarily dismissed without payment of travel expenses or loss of time.

That in my opinion is not justice, and accounts for the lack of co-operation on the part of the public in reporting dangerous breaches of road and traffic laws that are responsible for heavy accident and death rates on Alberta highways.

Sunday School Lesson

THE POWER OF THE RESURRECTION

International Sunday School Lesson for April 16, 1950

MEMORY SELECTION: "Thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."
—I Corinthians 15: 57.

Lesson Text: I Corinthians 15: 1-8, 20-21, 57-58

Man in every age has been baffled by the mystery of death. Years ago, Tennyson wrote:

"Thou wilt not leave us in the dust;
Thou madest man, he knows not why;
He thinks he was not made to die;
And thou hast made him; thou art just.'

In the scripture given for our lesson this week, the Apostle Paul is giving the basic essentials of his preaching. His messages were not based on speculat on nor on ideas, the truth of which is so probable that they offer a good basis for logical reasoning, nor on the argument that conceptions so beautiful ought to be true and, therefore, must be true. His preaching was based on facts on the revelation of truth in actual history. Christ died and rose again, not in the imag nation of pious men, but in their sight, in their actual experience. And in the power of this mighty fact, his followers have gone out to tell the good news to a world which needs salvation and is find ng it in the gospel of the resurrection. The Christian hope has its basis in fact.

It took the fact of the resurrection of Jesus to give that "something more" required to make the disciples into apostles —flaming witnesses for their Lord. After their contact with the risen Christ, they went forth as witnesses of the resurrection, with the power of the risen Christ manifest in their lives.

Henry St. George Tucker, in The Living Church, declares, "This is the true and abiding meaning of Easter. It is God revealing his Son in us as he did in St. Paul. We are not complete Christians until we have experienced within ourselves that resurrection of hope, courage, and power which comes from contact with the living Christ. It is not an experience that we can create for ourselves.

"Easter tells us that Christ is present in our hearts. The promise is 'Seek and ye shall find. For those who have responded to the Easter invitation and found Christ, this world is no longer a vale of despair. St. Paul's words are true for them: 'If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are becoming new.'

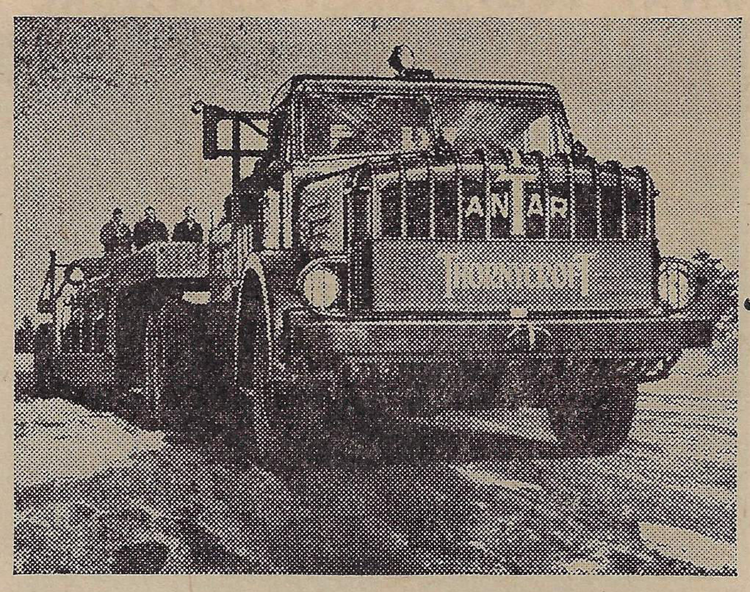

"What the world needs today is a body of Christian men and women who have had this Easter experience. Shall we not, then, at this Easter season pray that Christ will come to us, saying: 'All power is given to me in heaven and in earth. Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel, the good news of the having power of God through Christ, to every creature?"

John Munro Gibson says: "That there is continuity of life is of course implied in the very idea of resurrection; but true life resides not in the flesh, but in the spirit and, therefore, the continuity will be a spiritual continuity; and the power of God will effect such changes in the body itself that it will rise out of its fleshly condition into a state of being like that of the angels of God."

A personal faith in the resurrection and of the immortality of the soul is the strongest possible incentive for proper living. "The business of loving or hating, of being pure or impure, of spreading peace or weaving bitterness into the fabric of life," says Rufus M. Jones, "is eternal business, for all the time as one acts, one is forming the atmosphere in which he is going to live eternally. . . . This life and the life beyond are not two things but one, or at least parts of one whole."

Therefore, we should, as Lucius H. Bugbee declares, "Think and act today as if tomorrow might begin eternity."

They Have Oil in Iraq, Too

A new giant tractor built by Thorneycroft Ltd. of London, England, is designed to meet the requirements of Iraq Petroleum Co., for use on the pipeline between Kirkuk and the Mediterranean Sea. It can carry a load of 32 tons and for a gross train weight with semi-trailer, of up to 100 tons. This picture shows the giant tractor undergoing tests on rough ground during a demonstration recently.

European Tour Told In Pictures

"In Britain today the din of the diesel and the roar of the reaper is being heard more often than the hoot of the hunting horn," Dr. P. O. Ripley, Dominion Field Husbandman, Experimental Farms Service, Ottawa, told an interested audience recently in the lecture hall of the National Museum of Canada. He said that production has been increased on practically all farms and the deer and the fox in hunting parks on large estates are frequently geing repiaced by cattle and sheep.

"You have the feeling," Dr. Ripley said, "that the decks are cleared, the pruning hooks sharpened, the belts are tightened, and with backs to an economic wall, the British people are staging a terrific battle. With one Battle of Britain behind them, they are right in the middle of another—the battle for food, fat and finsances.

"And before it is over, who knows but that on the stately lawns of Windsor castle may be seen cabbages as well as kings?" the lecturer remarked as he showed kodachrome slides of Windsor and Buckingham mhmhh Windsor castle, Buckingham Palace, and many famous beauty spots in England and Scotland, with particular reference to internationally known agricultural research institutions in the United Kingdom.

Last summer Dr. Ripley represented Canada at the International Grassland Congress in the Netherlands and attended scientific conferences in Britain and and the continent. His slides included farming scenes in the Netherlands, France, Denmark, and Germany and his audiience, who the previous week at the National Museum had trod the "Milky Way" with a noted astonomer, were given every opportunity of observing the "agricultural" way of life in Western Europe, by one of Canada's leading agriculturists.

Man Marries Thrice; Thought He was Divorced Twice

EDMONTON. — Lightning does not often strike twice, Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd told a Devon resident who drew two years' suspended sentence after admitting he twice made "mistakes" which resulted in bigamy.

Counsel for Gordon Edginton said that on each occasion the man thought he was divorced.

Crown Prosecutor W. J Short reed conceded that the first time Edginton had made a mistake in marrying his second wife in 1945, seven months before his first wife divorced him. Defence counsel also maintained that on the second occasion, June, 1949, Edginton made another "mistake" by marrying a third woman before his second wife divorced him.

Mr. Justice Shepherd said he was not imposing a jail sentence, the only punishment for bigamy, "with a great deal of hesitation." Edginton was required to post a $1,000 bond for good behavior.

ONOWAY YOUTH RECEIVES AWARD AT EDMONTON SPRING STOCK SHOW

By CONSTANCE REINER

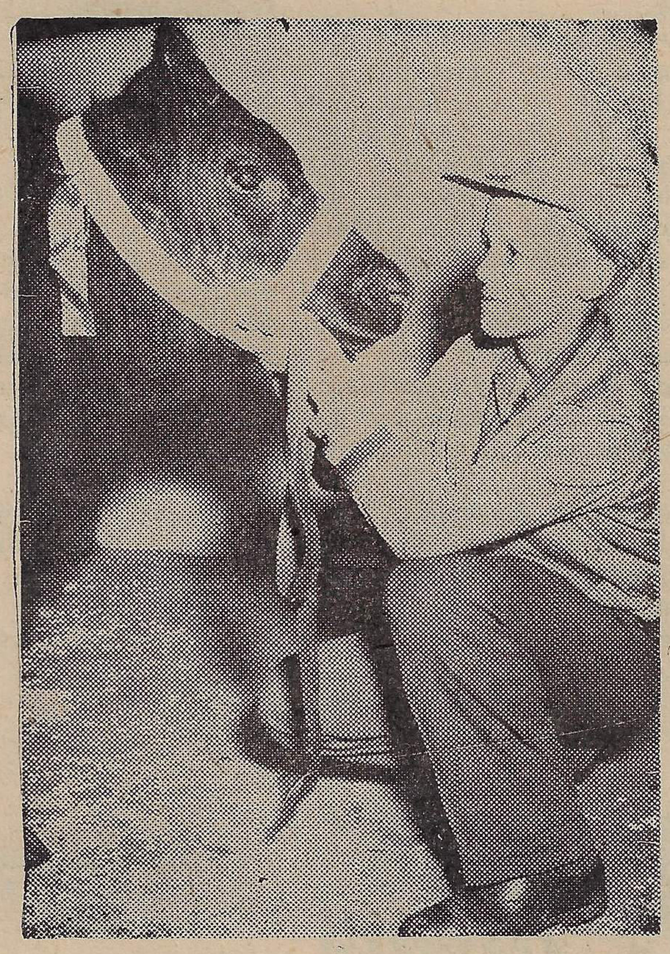

ONOWAY.—Kenneth Armitstead has been a regular winner at the Spring Stock shows at the Edmonton Exhibition grounds for several years.

His father, Cecil Armitstead, raises only Aberdeen Angus cattle, and has one of the finest herds anywhere in Alberta.

This year Kenny, who is 14 years old, won a $70 award at the Edmonton show for the best calf of the Aberdeen Angus breed. This calf he calls "Tillie".

Onoway district people are very proud and pleased with his wonderful success, and hope he will continue in such success in future years.

Dick Secord of Winterburn was also a winner for his Shorthorn Hereford calf, and so he deserves congratulations also.

Shown here is Kenneth Armitstead of Onoway who received a $70 award for his prize Aberdeen Angus at the Edmonton Spring Stock Show. Kenneth, who is 14 years old, has won prizes for the last several years at the Spring shows.

Edmonton Liberals Re-elect Wilson, Hear MacDonald Blast Government

A general executive of the Edmonton Liberal Association was named Tuesday night as the group met in the Oddfellows hall. Highlights of the electoral session of the party were the re-election of E. B. Wilson to the presidency of the association, and an address by Hugh John MacDonald, Liberal member of the legislature from Calgary.

Elected by acclamation were Mrs. P. Ragan, vice-president; P. J. Lazarowich, treasurer; and Miss Mary Scullion, secretary. Regional vice-presidents elected were Charles Dunn, east; Mrs. W. A. Lamb, south; and Mrs. Evelyn Montgomery, west.

Hurling defiance at the government, Mr. MacDonald said "I leave you to form your own conclusions" when he discussed refusal of the government to provide details on public works expenditures.

He commented that the Social Credit government refuses to "reveal names of firms or persons" to whom contracts for public works were given, and the amount of such successful tenders.

Probing further into Alberta political affairs, Mr. MacDonald termed the government's policy regarding the County Act and the hospitalization scheme "a direct, admitted contempt of democratic principles."

Referring to Edmonton's hospital rate of $5.50 per day, the speaker stated that it was excellent to the increased rate of $13 now prevailing in British Columbia.

The Calgary member concluded, "We need more public consciousness of what the public is doing. To counter-balance very evident complacency, we should be skeptical of what our government does."

Plans were discussed at the meeting for a renewed organization drive, with a view to winning the next provincial election, which will probably be held in the summer of 1952. An all-out campaign is planned for that contest.

Annual reports by the president, treasurer and secretary were brief and quickly approved. In a summation for possible subjects for discussion at subsequent meetings, it was suggested that open forum sessions be held on the British North America Act and the pending Alberta Act. Initial discussion will commence at the May meeting.

Let's Eat

BY

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"In spite of all that's been said and written about the appetizing flavor, the nutritive value and thriftiness of vegetable meals, they are not popular in most families."

"We must remember, Madame, that man is an all-eating animal. You laugh, Madame? But seriously I mean he eats all kinds of food. That is his nature. He likes animal foods as well as vegetable foods. And he usually prefers an appetizing combination of both in each meal."

Meat or Fish

"Of course, Chef, there is nothing dietetically wrong with a well-planned all-vegetable dinner, but I do think it is more enjoyable when meat or fish is added.

"For example, a homemaker might serve a main course platter consisting of parslied new potatoes, baby carrots and creamed new cabbage. To bring up the appetite appeal and nutrition, this could be garnished with small meat or fish croquettes.

"Another suggestion, Madame, which would be popular with the whole family, is to embellish a vegetable meal with shrimp, either canned or fresh. Shrimp in creole sauce would be good with any vegetable combination.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Coffee or Tea Milk (Children)

All Measurements Are Level
Recipes Serve Four

French Fried Shrimp

Purchase 2 lbs. medium-sized shrimp in the shell and wash thoroughly in cold water containing a little salt and vinegar. Remove the shells with a sharp knife but keep on the tails. With a small knife cut down the backs to remove the dark thread. (If you like, these can be left in as they are wholesome). Next heat enough lard or shortening in a heavy saucepan to make a depth of 1". When hot enough to brown a bit of bread in 1 min., the shrimp can be fried. First dip in egg batter; then lift each one by the tail and slide it into the hot fat. Fry until golden brown, allowing about 3 min. for each side. Drain on crumpled absorbent paper towels. Serve with mustard-ketchup sauce, or/and cole slaw.

Egg Batter: Beat 2 eggs slightly. Then stir and beat in 4 tbsp. flour, 2 tbsp. cold water and 1 tsp. salt. Use as directed.

Curried Rice

Measure 1 c. rice into a qt.-sized heavy saucepan. Add 2 c. cold water. Bring to boiling point. When boiling fast, cover, reduce the heat and slow-cook about 18 min., or until the rice has absorbed all the liquid. During the last 5 min. slip an asbestos mat underneath. When done, stir in with a fork 1 tbsp. butter or margarine blended with 1 tsp. curry powder, and heat.

Plum Cake

Thoroughly oil a 7" x 11" cake pan. On the bottom spread 1 tbsp. butter and 1 tbsp. light brown sugar blended together. Cover this with canned pitted plums thoroughly drained on absorbent paper towels. Place them rounded side down. Then make a cake batter, using a home recipe, or 1 pkg. of cake mix. Flavor it with lemon extract. Spread over the plums. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 F. from 35-40 min., or until a toothpick or cake tester, when inserted down through the cake as far as the plums, comes out clean. Serve warm or cold.

Trick of the Chef

To make mustard-ketchup sauce for shrimp, put 1 tsp. dry powdered mustard into a small bowl; add 2 tsp. heated sweet pickle vinegar and stir until very smooth. Then mix in ½ c. not too-sweet ketchup or chili sauce.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa:

There is a very poor family that lives near me and I have been helping them a great deal, but they have reached the place where they seem to think it is my duty to support them.

I am really not able to help them, as much as I do, and I am getting very much disguested with their attitude.

B. L. D.—Ala.

Answer:

It is always better to let people pay a little something for what they get or do a little work for it, rather than give things outright—that is, of course, unless they are in desperate circumstances and need things right away and are unable to work.

In that way, you save their self-respect and keep their morale up. That is why a work program is so much better for unemployed people than a dole would be.

If you have a community chest or a Salvation Army in your town, why not report this family to them. They will investigate them and see if they are really deserving of aid. In case you have no such agencies where you live, require the family to do some work for what you give them.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I have a good husband, but he has one bad fault. If we disagree about anything, he talks it over with his mother. Now, I like his mother and very often she takes my side, but I think married people should keep their differences to themselves and not tell them to other people.

My husband says his mother has had lots of expereince and he has always depended on her advice. Whick of us do you think is right?

WIFE—Okla.

Answer:

I, like you, think that family disagreements should not be shared with any outsider, no matter how nice or sensible they may be. Your mother-in-law has probably had valuable experience but every young couple should have an opportunity to adjust their lives to each other without interference. They will make mistakes but they will also grom closer to each other as they profit by these mistakes.

Your husband is a big boy now and it is time that he learned to decide a few things for himself.

UOLSIA.

"Bucket Lunch" Is Unique Service

REDWATER. — This thriving community of oil workers has a remarkable lunch-basket service that suits the "rough-neck-ers" and all others to a degree of high porosity.

It is provided by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gagnon from a small trailer fronting main street. With the use of modern cooking equipment including propane gas in the tiny, spotless kitchen, Mrs. Gagnon prepares lunches that are packed in workers' lunch tins.

Oil men leave their lunch kits at the "Bucket Lunch" a few hours before going out to the drilling sites, and pick them up packed with tasty lunches on their way out of town.

A typical menu is one roast pork sandwich, one cooked meat sandwich, one hot cross bun, fruit, and tea or coffee. This service costs only 50c each

Mr. Gagnon is working at Malowany's Garage in Redwater and builds trailers to order. The couple formerly lived at Vancouver and Edmonton.

PORTLAND, Ind. — Sheriff Clarence Bishop reported $10,000 was stolen from the home of Mrs. Albert Keen, but was found three days later, hidden in a piece of tile about 400 feet from the home. Bishop theorized the thief got much more than he expected and was afraid to steal so much money.

Amateur Evening Considered Success

HYLO.—The Hylo Senior classroom was filled to capacity so that several remained and watched from the hallway. There just wasn't enough room even though children were sitting on the floor while others were on their mothers knees.

The program was composed of varied items such as solos, duets, groups of instrumental numbers and a dance. An interesting dialogue was given by a couple of boys as well as some jolly music by an instrumental group as intermission items.

Mr. Lynn Hall, superintendent of schools, Mrs. Elda Keehn and Mrs. Mary Coli Jr. adjudicated. Prizes went to the following:

Miss Margaret Tichoniuk and Miss Norma Rayment tied for first in solos.

Walter Tichoniuk, solo.

Mr. Salvadore Annillee, accordion solo.

David Langevin and the boys, instrumental.

Sherill, David and Jeanette Lozinski and Julie Owchas, dance number.

Grace Stratichuk and Marjorie Lozinski tied for solos in preschool group.

Oh yes, love is in the air, Spring beautiful Spring. It's just dandy if we can ignore the mud and gaze at the blue skies.

Filibuster Forestalls Action On Natural Gas Export

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

Bills to incorporate two companies to transmit natural gas from Alberta to the west coast, over which argument has flared into a virtual parliamentary vendetta, has resulted in the most prolonged filibuster ever seen in Ottawa. Meanwhile, several U.S. companies, backed by new discoveries of gas in Wyoming and Montana, are planning lines to the Pacific Northwest, an area which the Alberta fields must serve if B.C. is to receive Alberta gas.

Companies involved in the parliamentary debate are the Alberta Natural Gas Co. and the Prairie Transmission Lines Ltd. Spark-plugging the filibusters have been Howard Green (PC-Fraser Valley) and Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops). They argue that the lines must follow all-Canadian routes in order to guarantee B.C. consumers of suffcient supplies, and to speed the industrialization of B.C.'s inland valleys.

The House of Commons has been practically stalled over the controversy, and opposing members are seeking to talk out the bills, and thus forestall their passing.

Opposition has also been registered by some Liberal members, and most CCF'ers. Supporters of the bill have urged parliament to allow the companies to go before a commons committee and outline plans and routes they intend to follow.

They add that an all-Canadian route might be extremely difficult to operate and service during the winter. They point to the difficulties the railroads had in operating out of B.C. last winter because of heavy snowstorms.

Speaking of the disappointment nationalists are bound to have in seeing the line to the coast go through the U.S., one member this week pointed out that had the Interprovincial oil pipe line been told to follow an all-Canadian route it would never have been built.

By going to Lake Superior via Wisconsin rather than Fort William, it makes the line cheaper and easier to build and operate.

Continuing argument of filibuster members is that an all-guarantee British Columbia consumers that they will get gas before U.S. consumers. Only hitch in this is that U.S. consumers, in Washington and Oregon, must be served, for it is they who make the line economically feasible. B.C. alone has not enough customers to pay for building and maintaining a pipe line.

"Protect British Columbia" argument has been met by assurances from pipe line companies, by the terms of the gas conservation act, and now by assurances of Trade Minister Howe that Alberta natural gas will not be exported to the U.S. at the expense of Canadian consumers. Moreover, until such time as the companies are allowed to go ahead with their plans, whatever final policy may be, Alberta centers that are not at present receiving gas will have to go without. For in constructing the export line, it is planned to establish a network of subsidiary lines which would serve many small towns throughout the province.

Meanwhile, Alberta income from natural gas export continues to be faced with potential competition from Wyoming and Montana natural gas ,also aimed at the Pacific Northwest. Unless Canadian natural gas is assured of this market, no line to the coast can be built.

U.S. pipe line people who already serve the southern section of the Pacific coast are extending their pipe line northward in the direction of the gas-hungry Portland-Seattle region.

News From Hollywood

When Universal - International makes the film version of the stage hit, "Harvey," Mrs. Mary Chase, author of the prize-winning play, wants Harvey seen on the screen—at the tail end of the film, as a means of vindicating James Setwart, who plays the role in the film. Otherwise, she says, he appears to be merely a drunk." So far, both Jimmy and the studio are saying, "No."

Girls, that new giant blond villain you see on the screen these days is none other than Lyle Bettger, who kidnaps, murders and robs with nary a wink of the eye. He's a former Broadway actor who made a hit as heavy in several plays.

Bette Davis, busy on the RKO lot with "Story on Divorce," is one of the happiest actresses in Hollywood. Bette is free-lancing these days, being free from her Warner Brothers contract after eighteen years on the same lot.

So enthusiastic is the reception being given to the talking mule, "Francis," that plans are under way to give American people another picture starring the mule. This time it will be "Francis Goes To Washington."

Metro's breaking out all over in Americana, having on schedule, "A Plymouth Adventure," dealing with the pilgrims; "Inside Straight," about the California gold rush; "Across the Wide Missouri," and "It's a Big Country."

Stand-ins are having a field day in Paramount's "Union Station." Director Rudy Mate with a sympathetic eye on the boys and girls who seldom get their faces on film, has ordered that as many stand-ins as possible be given acting roles in the suspense film which stars William Holden, Barry Fitzgerald and Nancy Olson.

Among the stand-ins who will be seen are Douglas Spencer, who has been Ray Milland's stand-in for many films; Charmienne Harker, stand-in for Hedy Lamarr; Helen Hanson, Barbara Stanwyck's substitute; Tommy Summers, stand-in for Alan Ladd; Howard Gardner, Sir Ralph Richardson's stand-in; Charles Campbell, who works with Sonny Tufts; Alan Calm, for Bing Crosby; Lyle Maroine for Bob Hope; Pearl Miller for Nancy Olson; Gus Taillon for Barry Fitzgerald; and others.

Well, Dean Jagger's gone and done it—done away with his toupee, that is. His role in "12 O'Clock High," in which he played the "retread" desk officer in the Air Force. One of the stipulations was that the role had to be done by a bald-headed man. Jagger gladly disposed of his hairpiece and turned in such an excellent performance he received an Academy nomination.

This Swain Found Love A Rough Road

OLYMPIA, Wash.—Determined to see his girl to explain a misunderstanding, Ed Dorsey climbed to the roof of a store adjacent to her apartment, hoping to see her through the window. He fell through a skylight into the store and couldn't get out as all the doors were locked. He telephoned police, who locked him in jail, charged with intoxication. Released the next day, he had to have his back treated, having suffered a back injury in his fall.

TELLING HER SIZE

He walked timidly into the store and announced he wished to buy a present for a young lady.

The saleslady showed him some silk coats but when she asked him the size, he was baffled. He gazed about helplessly for a minute or so and then, spotting a dummy figure, a smile stole over his face. Walking up to it, he encircled it with his arm.

"About this size will do," he said, happily.

SANGUDO BRIEFS

SANGUDO. — Remodelling and moving seem to be the order of the month. Norman Thibert is remodelling a suite above the post office. This will be occupied by Mr. George Cherniwchan who has sold his home to Joe Charbonneau.

Donna McKeen and Harriet Male helped little Patsy Naegli celebrate her third birthday on Sunday, April 2.

Great interest is being shown in the Ice Pool being sponsored by the Sangudo Elks. Reports from the sale of tickets show that practically all books have been disposed of. An electrical device of original design has been set up by two mechanically minded wizards.

This will go off automatically when the ice breaks up. The person who guesses either the correct time or closest to the correct time will collect 70 per cent of all proceeds.

Measles and now mumps are still on the loose. Few families have escaped and the school attendance has shown a decrease.

Miss Lorraine Soetaert was the lucky door prize winner, a lovely box of chocolates donated by Mrs. O. Gosselin. At whist Miss Margarite Sheehan was the recipient of the ladies first prize and Mr. Edgar Chevalier won for the men. Boobie awards for cards went to Miss Gertrude Meunier and R. Brennies.

SEEDING IS A MOST IMPORTANT OPERATION

In the Success of Your Crop

Time has proved that moisture and weather conditions have more to do with the failure or success of a grain crop than other factors, but observation and experience have also shown that good quality, clean seed propertly sown will produce bigger and better yields than dirty, inferior seed planted by a faulty drill.

In the Massey-Harris No. 306 drill you will find new features and new improvements for better seeding. In-so-far as accuracy in planting is concerned the No. 306 will do the work better than any of our previous drills. The other features insure smoother running, longer wear, light draft and dependable operation with low upkeep cost.

Stork Visits Ambulance in Below Zero Weather

—Central Press Canadian

A rather unusual story was told by Warrant Officer W. R. Dunlop of Camp Borden, Ont., who revealed that his wife gave birth to a baby son in a snowbound ambulance last week while the temperature hovered below zero. While driving to Alliston for delivery, the ambulance became stuck in deep snow. Then in midst of confusion, Mrs. Dunlop called her husband and driver of ambulance, Pte. William Carter, to assist at birth of baby. When foursome finally got to hospital, two hours after birth of baby boy, it was found that neither mother nor son suffered any serious effects from delayment.

Town Planner Suggests South Side Airport

Unsuitable mid-town location of the Edmonton airport highlights the list of major problems looming in the growth of Edmonton, and Town Planner Noel Dant, charged with the responsibility of developing an over-all policy for the future of the city, is of the opinion that Edmonton's new airport should be located on the outskirts of South Edmonton.

Meanwhile, a brief glimpse at Edmonton's future airport was given to city council recently by Airport Manager James Bell. He asserted that it will probably be a long, narrow one, resembling a railroad yard in shape.

During consideration of airport operation costs, Mr. Bell said the present airport could be used for a few more years yet, and that improvement reserves contain a balance of $100,000.

Heavier aircraft of the future will probably have turntable undercarriages, permitting them to land in 40 to 50 degree crosswinds. Airports therefore won't have to be laid out over large areas, with several runways. One long runway will suffice.

The city alone could never afford to put out enough money for a new airport location, said Mr. Bell, but would have to seek Ottawa's assistance in any change.

Mr. Dant is of the opinion that South Edmonton within ten years might have half the city's population, when Edmonton will have reached the 300,000 mark. For the South Side to accomplish this objective, it would be necessary for the district to quadruple its present populaton.

Present poor location of the airport is hampering the construction of tall buildings in downtown Edmonton, as sky-scrapers cannot be built within a certain radius of the airport.

Example is to be found in the recent Glenton hotel project, which ran into difficulties of this nature, and finally withdrew from the city altogether.

Suggestions have been put forward that the Namao airport should be used for commercial purposes, but military men object to this. They say that Namao should be used exclusively for military purposes.

Located on the outskirts of South Edmonton, a city airport would be within serving distance of downtown Edmonton, and yet not hinder the development of the metropolitan area.

While actual action will not be taken on relocation of the city's airport for some time, it is a problem that will have to be solved before long.

Bonnie Doon Won't Have Trolley Busses Until 1951

"Edmonton Transit System is not satisfied with the service it has been giving Bonnie Doon residents," according to T. Ferrier, system superintendent, "but we are doing everything we can to improve service in the district."

Commenting on the proposed trolly bus service to replace the present gas buses, Mr. Ferrier said that a change-over would not be made until the summer of 1951 at the earliest. Mr. Furrier asserted that until the district is more built up, it is not practical to install expensive over-head wires required for the trolly buses.

When the trolly service finally is instituted, it would probably run east on 82 avenue from 91 street to 83 street.

Returning to the subject of satisfactory service, the transit superintendent pointed out that "we are always open to suggestions" for improvements in the system.

Main reason given for the delay in putting into service the trolly buses is that the district is not sufficiently populous to pay the cost of installing the necessary equipment.

The Transit sustem expects that by mid-1951 Bonnie Doon will be built up to a point where patronage in the district will pay the cost of installing the overhead wires.

New Emphasis Placed On Accessories

Accessories are becoming very important in new fashions. Manufacturer Peter Russel, for instance dyes every one to match in the same or lighter shade from petticoat to hat and gloves. Some are showing sweaters made by disabled soldiers, and a number of homespun tweeds have been used. Corduroy is being shown both for handbags and scarves, and gloves are made in a variety of materials. Exquisitely styled and tailored in suedes, leathers and velvets, and in tweeds to match suits or coats, or in light fabrics to be worn with dresses, many of these gloves are today high fashion. One designer has ingeniously contrived a method by which some of his gloves can either be worn full length or, by pulling a thong, be turned into cuffed short gloves.

The housefly, if not swated in early life will live as long as 10 weeks.

SEEKS NEW DEAL IN RAIL RATES

—Central Press Canadian

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, seen on his arrival in Ottawa, said that he was carrying to the federal cabinet his province's fight for a new deal in railway freight rates. At the same time he said he was confident the controversial freight rates issue will never sever the bonds of Confederation between the island province and the rest of Canada. Mr. Smallwood said he would "appeal to the governor-general-in-council against the Feb. 20 award of the board of transport commissioners." The award ruled against the province in its application for an order scrapping Newfoundland's rate structure and replacing it by rates in effect in the maritimes.
